XERIC GARDEN CLUB of ALBUQUERQUE

CONSERVING WATER THROUGH PLANT SELECTION

xericgardenclub.org

As a member you will receive information to help you achieve your goal of creating and maintaining a beautiful and colorful drought-tolerant garden. Membership also entitles you to participate in all of our meetings and special events.

Our Certified Wildlife Habitat Garden at the Albuquerque Garden Center, designed by Albuquerque resident Virginia Burris, utilizes native plants to provide food, water, shelter and places to raise wildlife creatures, including butterflies, birds, lizards and bees. This xeric garden offers an opportunity for hands-on learning and provides a template that can be easily replicated in a homeowner's garden.

The Xeric Garden Club of Albuquerque is a non-profit organization and a member of the Council of Albuquerque Garden Clubs, which owns and operates the Albuquerque Garden Center at 10120 Lomas Blvd NE, Albuquerque NM 87112. The Council maintains demonstration gardens in the adjacent Los Altos Gardens, including the Xeric Wildlife Habitat developed and maintained by the Xeric Garden Club.

The Xeric Garden Club meets once a month on a Saturday from 9 am – 12 noon at various locations in the Albuquerque area. These monthly programs feature xeric garden topics and include speakers, slide presentations, garden tours and demonstrations. It provides the opportunity to get acquainted with other xeric-minded gardeners and landscapers. Members exchange ideas and information in an informal setting. Xeriscaping is sensitive to the environment. It's interesting, with new drought-tolerant plants coming onto the market every year. What's more, xeric gardening is fun!

All the plants on the front are xeric and examples of how colorful your garden can be!
